

Harbor Voices

New York Harbor tugs, ferries, people, places, & more . . .

Anthology by Terry Walton

Harbor Voices celebrates New York's working harbor within lively recent memory – the people, places, and vessels that make the city work. It includes behind-the-scenes stories of tug skippers, little-known islands, arch-windowed waterfront buildings, and more as interconnections to earlier times. ★ Contents include selections from HarborGuide, South Street Reporter, Seaport Magazine, Sea History Magazine, and elsewhere by maritime editor and author Terry Walton and others – as well as lively new portraits of people and places illuminating the harbor's vitality today and its role in our everyday lives. ★ Published by National Maritime Historical Society's Sea History Press, working cooperatively with the Working Harbor Committee. ★ Authors include Terry Walton – vice chair of the Working Harbor Committee, a founder of South Street Seaport Museum and founding editor of Seaport Magazine – as well as ship historian Norman Brouwer, tug skipper Geo Matteson, South Street founder Peter Stanford, Working Harbor director John Doswell, maritime editor Richard Stepler, diverse others. ★ Profusely illustrated – South Street Seaport Museum archives; photographs by Bernard Ente and selected

Seaport Magazine photographers; Brouwer collection; noted maritime artists such as Naima Rauam. ★ “A must read for lovers of the sea.”

“Terry Walton knows how to tell maritime stories. This book is a must read for lovers of the sea.”

– William F. Baker,
Channel Thirteen/WNET New York

“I think it's terrific – a rich collection of lore.”

– Norman Brouwer, maritime historian

“There's nothing like it – very personal, written by people who know the waters well.”

– Marcia Wiley,
*former managing editor,
Yachting magazine*

“Harbor Voices is timely, instructive and – dare we say it – inspiring, as our city reconnects with its long-neglected waterfront.”

– Kent Barwick, Municipal Art Society

“Excellent book . . . just what we've needed for people wanting to deepen their experience of New York harbor.”

– Capt. John Doswell, Working Harbor Committee
