Tugboats, oil barges, tankers, container ships, car carriers, ocean liners and ferries ply the busy waters of New York Harbor daily, but most of their activity is hidden from land.

This tour goes places that most people never get to see: Brooklyn's Erie Basin, Staten Island's Tugboat Alley, the always busy Kill Van Kull, and Newark Bay where tour goers will be able to see the heart of the busiest port on the East Coast and the third busiest port in the nation.

Views of the Statue of Liberty and the Manhattan skyline will round out the harbor experience as our boat returns home,

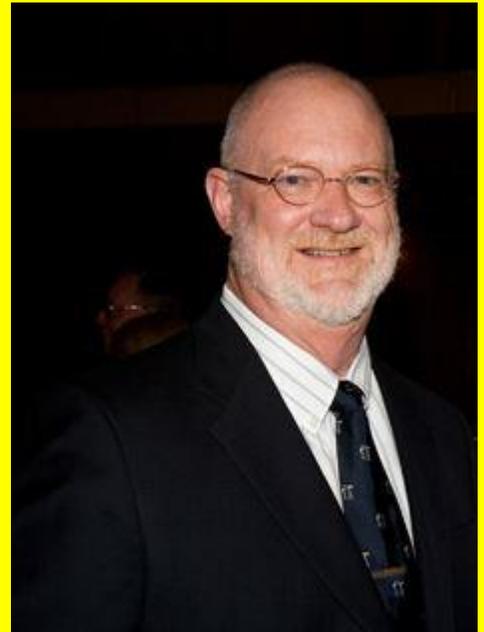

Special Guest Narrator Ed Kelly

Ed Kelly executive director of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York and New Jersey, and Captain John Doswell, executive director of the Working Harbor Committee, will draw on their long maritime experience to describe how the port works.

"The maritime industry delivers the American way of life. It is essential to the nation's security and economic well being", Ed Kelly said. "But because we have gotten so good at what we do people don't even know we do it any more. It is hidden away. That's why tours like this are so important."

This two-hour tour will take place aboard Zephyr, a three-deck luxury passenger boat. Zephyr will depart from South Street Seaport's Pier 16 at Fulton Street and the East River promptly at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, 9 July. Tickets: $39 adults; $32, Working Harbor Committee members and seniors (65+); $25, children (3-12). Snacks and beverages, including wine and beer, will be available for purchase.

If you can't make it this time, the next and final Newark Bay tour will be 10 September. Purchase tickets for either tour here.
